Judge Sharswood on Legal Tenders—Extract from His Opinion in the Case of Borie vs. Trott:

"On the whole, then, I am of the opinion that the provision of the act of Congress of February 26th, 1862, declaring the notes issued in pursuance of that act to be lawful money, and a legal tender, IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

"This renders it necessary that I should consider the other question which has been made, as to the effect of the special agreement to pay in lawful silver money of the United States. I am in favor of entering judgment for the plaintiff, but as a majority of the court are of a different opinion, judgment for the defendant."—Copied from the Philadelphia Age of February, 1864, where the opinion is published in full.

It may also be found in the Legal Intelligencer of March 18, 1864, page 92.

In the same copy of the Age is a carefully prepared eulogy of the Judge and his opinion, in which is the following:

"Judge Sharswood reasons upon and decides the case as if he were some lofty spirit sitting far above and out of the contentions and strifes of the world."

Will not the holders of greenbacks and Government bonds consider the Judge as quite too elevated and ethereal for such earthly honors as a seat on the Supreme Bench?

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION. The unterrified minority, the Democratic party of Allegheny county, year after year go through the farce of nominating a ticket to present at the polls in opposition to the Republicans, who have matters their own way in this District. Yesterday a convention of Democratic delegates assembled and succeeded in finding enough men willing to be sacrificed at the forthcoming election, in order that the party organization may be kept up and cherished in the county. The attendance at the Convention was quite respectable, and, to a certain degree, harmonious. The inevitable resolutioniser, R. H. Kerr, Esq., was on hand with a modest string of whereases and resolves to present to the "loyal" assemblage. He was not to be frowned down, although many of the delegates felt that the party has enough to bear, without carrying the high sounding but meaningless words of Mr. Kerr as a platform of principles. The venerable father of many resolutions finally triumphed, and thus again demonstrated that he had the party in his capacious pocket. A modest representative of the new fledged Democratic and National Union organ of Western Pennsylvania, and one of an ever troublesome faction, was deeply concerned for the "old man" at Washington, and with eloquence endeavored to show how much respect was due Mr. Johnson by the unterrified. The delegates had some knowledge of the past experience of the party in tying to the skirts of the aforesaid "old man" and repudiated him. Just think of it—Andrew Johnson set aside by the Democrats of Allegheny county, and the influence of the respectable journal which is devoted to his interests, repudiated too, as though not worth courting. After this exhibition of feeling on the part of the great minority towards the President, we are constrained to ask where now may be found his friends and admirers? The Convention adjourned after making nominations, and doubtless the party will make noble efforts towards lessening the overwhelming majority promised our favorite candidate, Judge Williams.

WE FIND the following letter in the Philadelphia Press, which gives the lie to the statement made by the mythical Salem Journal that the State Superintendent of Common Schools in Pennsylvania, Mr. Wickersham, is a New Englander. While the announcement was not calculated to injure that gentleman, still it is proper to expose the tricks resorted to by the leaders of the Democratic party to secure votes through forgery and falsehood. Here is the letter:

HARRISBURG, August 12, 1867.

To the Editors of The Press:

SIR: In the Salem Journal article, which you so properly call a "stupid forgery," it is stated that "the State Superintendent of Common Schools is by birth and education a New Englander, and it is fair to presume that the next crop of Dutch voters will be as completely 'Yankeeized' as it is possible to effect out of such unpromising material."

Although it is removing myself from the best of company, it is proper to say that I belong to one of the oldest Pennsylvania families, my ancestors having come from England about the year 1684, and that I have never been out of the State more than six weeks at a time in my life.

If some people are afraid of intelligent voters it is not my fault.

J. E. WICKERSHAM,
Superintendent Common Schools.

THAT very important body, the Fenian Congress, is in session in New York and doubtless the freedom of Ireland has again and again been declared on paper and by enthusiastic Milesian orators, since its commencement. It is announced that John Savage has been elected Head Centre and President of the organization. What has Roberts done, that he should be defeated just after his return from the Courts of France, Austria, Italy and Prussia, with his bosom full of mysterious secrets, and plots for the deliverance of old Iriland? It is too bad to shelve him with O'Mahony and Stephens, for he deserved better.

THE Republicans of Dauphin county have nominated the following ticket: Assembly—Col. A. J. Herr, P. S. Bergstresser. Prothonotary—Joseph H. Nissley. Register—George M. Mark. Treasurer—Albert Hummell. Commissioner—Isaac Hoffman. Poor Director—Philip Moyer. Coroner—James Porter. Auditor—A. K. Black. Jury Commissioner—Capt. Rutherford.

GRANT'S silence may be a commendable virtue, but the people are now clamoring for an opinion of some kind from him on the important questions of the hour. The Soldiers' Union, of Washington, D. C., refused to pass a resolution complimentary to him, inasmuch as no one knows where he stands, and it would be unsafe to endorse a man resting on uncertain ground.

AN important legal decision from our candidate for Supreme Judge, Hon. H. W. WILLIAMS, delivered yesterday in the District Court, will be found in our local columns to-day. It will repay careful perusal, as it is the first of the character made since the passage of the Bankrupt act, and as a legal document is worthy of preservation.

THE negroes of the South are beginning to fully appreciate the great privilege of suffrage, and are anxious to become thoroughly educated in the politics of the country, so that they may prove acceptable and worthy citizens.

IT is now rumored from Washington that Gen. SICKLES' removal is contemplated by the President. Like SHERIDAN, Gen. SICKLES has been using his best efforts towards successful reconstruction and must suffer.

IMPORTANT NITRO-GLYCERINE CASE.

LIVERPOOL, August 21.—The important suit of the West India and Pacific Steamship Company vs. A. S. Williams & Guion, first tried in the Liverpool Court of Assize, has resulted in a judgment for the plaintiffs, with damages assessed 13,000 pounds sterling. The suit grew out of an explosion of nitro-glycerine at Aspinwall, April 3d, 1866, by which the steamship European, belonging to plaintiffs, was totally destroyed while lying at the above named port. The explosion also resulted in the loss of sixty lives, including those of the captain and several other officers of the steamer. The Caribbean, of the same line, also sustained serious damage. The ship was valued at thirty-six to forty thousand pounds. The cargo was insured for about eighty thousand pounds. The damages to the Caribbean were estimated at nearly ten thousand pounds. The owners of several buildings on the shore, which were demolished, put in their claims for damages to a considerable amount additional, but the underwriters declined to make good their losses and threw the responsibility upon the owners of the European, upon the ground that they were culpable in carrying explosive materials on their ship and below deck. The plaintiffs in turn brought suit against Williams & Guion, as shippers of nitro glycerine, claiming that they were guilty of deception in shipping an article under the name of Glorian Oil, a substance unknown to chemists or commerce, and thus involved the plaintiffs in their great losses and liabilities. Defendants replied they had acted in the matter only as forwarders; that the explosive material came to them from a Hamburg house, with instructions to forward to Bondman, Neal & Son via plaintiffs' lines; that they were themselves deceived by the description title of Glorian Oil in the manifest, and had no knowledge nor suspicion of the dangerous character of the freight, which thus passed through their hands in the usual course of their business. The judgment rendered is understood to definitely settle the fact that the plaintiffs are entitled to damages and cannot recover their losses from the underwriters; but the question whether the defendants are ultimately liable, or whether the plaintiffs must look to the original shippers at Hamburg, goes to a higher tribunal for argument and decision.

DISTRICT COURT.

The O'Hara Bench Warrant Case—The Bankrupt Law and Pennsylvania Insolvent Law—Important Opinion by Judge Williams.

A decision was rendered by Judge Williams, of the District Court, yesterday, on the question, raised in the O'Hara bench warrant case, argued on Friday of last week, on a motion to quash the warrant. As the opinion is of more than ordinary importance, we publish it in full.

The Commonwealth at the instance of James Millingar vs. Michael O'Hara. No. 72, November Term, 1867. Bench Warrant.

OPINION BY WILLIAMS, A. J.

This is a proceeding by Bench Warrant, under the act of July 12th, 1842, at the instance of James Millingar, a judgment creditor of O'Hara & Robinson, against Michael O'Hara, a member of the said firm. The affidavit of complainant, upon which the warrant of arrest in this case was issued, sets forth the recovery of a judgment, in this Court, by the affiant against the firm of O'Hara & Robinson, upon a bond in the penal sum of $50,000, conditioned to indemnify him from his liability as endorser of certain promissory notes, drawn by the said firm to the amount of $25,000—$8,500 of which notes, it is averred, had become due and had been protested for non-payment, and which he had become liable to pay, and one of which, amounting to $2,500, he had actually paid.

The affidavit charges that the defendant bargained and sold a large quantity of tools and other property of the firm, of the value of $1,500, for four hundred dollars, and that he so disposed of the said property with intent to defraud his creditors:

That he gave to his wife, or to some person in trust for her, about $7000 of the monies of the firm with intent to defraud his creditors:

That he removed out of the county certain property, to wit: bank notes, United States Treasury notes, drafts and bills of exchange, amounting in the whole to about $20,000, with intent to defraud his creditors:

That he has property and money which he fraudulently conceals, and unjustly refuses to apply to the payment of affiant's judgment:

That he has disposed of a portion of his property and is about to dispose of other portions of his property with intent to defraud his creditors.

Upon the presentation of the affidavit, a warrant for the arrest of the defendant was issued in accordance with the requirements of the act, and he was thereupon arrested and brought before me for hearing; but, at his instance, the hearing of the case was adjourned to a subsequent day, upon his giving bond, with surety, for his appearance at that time. At the adjourned hearing his counsel moved to quash the warrant on two grounds:

First, Because the Bankrupt act of the 2d March, 1867, supercedes all proceedings under the act of 12th July, 1842, where, as in this case, the complainant's debt is provable under the Bankrupt act, and the defendant is amenable to its provisions.

Second, The warrant was irregularly issued, and cannot be enforced under the provisions of the act of 12th July, 1842, because at the time the said warrant was issued there was a pending levy on the personal property of the partnership, consisting of the materials, stock, manufactured ware and merchandize of the said firm, and upon the individual property of the defendant, embracing his stock in the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad Company, and in the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company, by virtue of a fi. fa. issued on complainant's judgment; and because all the monies and effects of the defendant in the possession of the Exchange National Bank have been attached, by virtue of an attachment in execution issued on said judgment and served upon the garnishee, as appears by the said writs and the indorsment of the Sheriff thereon.

The motion was thereupon argued by the counsel on both sides and held under advisement, and the further hearing of the case adjourned until the present time upon the defendant's entering into a new bond, with surety, for his appearance.

In considering and determining the questions raised by the defendant's motion, I have availed myself of the learning and judgment of my brethren—the President Judge of this Court, and the President and Associate Judges of the Court of Common Pleas. At my request, and with the view of securing uniformity of decision and practice under the act authorizing this proceeding, they have investigated and considered the questions with me, and the result is that we have unanimously come to the following conclusions:

First—That the Bankrupt Act, as soon as it went into operation, ipso facto, suspended all action upon future cases arising under the insolvent laws of this State, where the insolvent laws act upon the same subject matter and the same persons as the Bankrupt Act.

Second—That the Bankrupt Act suspends all proceedings under the act of 12th of July, 1842, where the latter act operates on the same subject matter and upon the same persons as the former.

Third—That the Bankrupt Act operates upon the subject matter of the complaint in this case and upon the persons affected thereby, and therefore, it suspends the operation of the act of July 12th, 1842, under which the warrant for the defendant's arrest was issued.

Fourth—That even if this were not so, the warrant in this case was not regularly issued, and cannot be enforced, under the provisions of the act of July 12th, 1842, pending a levy on the personal property of the partnership and the individual property of the defendant, by virtue of the fi. fa. in the sheriff's hands, issued on complainant's judgment; and pending the attachment of defendant's effects, in the possession of the garnishee, by virtue of the execution attachment issued on said judgment.

Fifth—That the warrant issued in this case, must, therefore, be quashed.

But before proceeding to make the order it may be proper to give briefly the reasons in support of the conclusions to which we have come—

First—The Constitution of the United States gives to Congress the power to establish uniform laws on the subject of Bankruptcies throughout the United States. How far this power supercedes State legislation was at one time a matter of much discussion, upon which Judges differed in opinion. Some held that the power in Congress is exclusive of that of the States; and, whether exerted or not, it supersedes State legislation. Golden vs. Prince, 3 Wash. Circ. Rep. 313. Others maintained that the power in Congress is not exclusive, and that, when unexerted, the States are at liberty to exercise it; and this opinion is now firmly established by judicial decisions. Sturgis vs. Crowninshield, 4 Wheat, 122; Ogden vs. Saunders, 12 id., 273. The well settled doctrine on the subject is that the powers granted to Congress are not exclusive of similar powers existing in the States, unless where the Constitution has expressly in terms given an exclusive power to Congress, or the exercise of a like power is prohibited to the States, or there is a direct repugnancy or incompatibility in the exercise of it by the States. In all other cases the States retain concurrent authority with Congress, except when the laws of the States and of the Union are in direct and manifest collision on the same subject, and then those of the Union, being the supreme law of the land, are of paramount authority, and the State laws so far, and so far only, as such incompatibility exists, must necessarily yield. But in the case of concurrent powers, when once the Legislature of the Union has exercised its powers on a given subject, the State power over that same subject which was before concurrent, is by that exercise prohibited. 1. Kent's Com. 390-1. This doctrine has been applied by the Courts to the power of Congress on the subject of bankruptcies; and it has been held that though the power in Congress is not exclusive of the States, and when unexerted, the States are at liberty to exercise the power in its full extent, unless so far as they are controlled by other constitutional provisions; yet when Congress has acted upon the subject, to the extent of the national legislation, the power of the States is limited and controlled. 4 Wheat. 122; 12 id. 273.

Let us then apply these principles to the question before us. If the Bankrupt Act conflicts with the insolvent laws of this State, the operation of the latter is suspended so long as the Bankrupt law continues in force. It is true that there is a wide difference between the Bankrupt Act and our insolvent laws, as it respects the relief afforded to the debtor, for, while the bankrupt may be discharged from his debts, the insolvent debtor is only discharged from imprisonment. And there are marked differences in other respects. But these differences in the scope and purpose of the acts, and as it respects the regulations contained therein, do not necessarily prevent the acts from conflicting with each other. On the contrary they may occasion the conflict. The line of partition between bankrupt and insolvent laws is not so distinctly marked, as to enable any person to say with positive precision, what belongs exclusively to the one and not to the other class of laws. It is difficult to discriminate with accuracy between bankrupt and insolvent laws; and therefore a bankrupt law may contain those regulations which are generally found in insolvent laws, and an insolvent law may contain those which are common to a bankrupt law: 2 Kent. Com. 390. As it respects the laws in question they both operate upon the same subject matter, and upon the same persons, and they provide in some respects a different rule for the distribution of a debtor's effects among his creditors. They are therefore, in direct and manifest collision with each other, and the laws of the State must yield to the paramount authority of the national legislature. And so the question was decided in ex parte Lucius Eames 2 Story Rep. 322, cited by defendant's counsel. It was there held that the Bankrupt law of 1841, upon going into operation in February, 1842, ipso facto suspended all action upon future cases arising under the State insolvent laws, where the insolvent persons were within the purview of the Bankrupt law. In delivering the opinion Judge Story said: It appears to me that both systems cannot be in operation or apply at the same time to the same persons; and where the State and National legislation upon the same subject, and the same persons come in conflict, the National laws must prevail, and suspend the operation of the State laws. This, as far as I know, has been the uniform doctrine maintained in all the Courts of the United States. And, after referring to the different opinions expressed by the Judges in the case of Sturgis vs. Crowninshield, 5 Wheat. 122, as to the question of the exclusive power vested in Congress by the Constitution of the United States to pass a Bankrupt law, he says: But all the Court were agreed that when Congress did pass a Bankrupt Act, it was supreme, and that the state laws must yield to it and could no longer operate upon persons or cases within the purview of such act. * * * * It seems to me, therefore, he adds, that nothing remains upon which an argument can be founded, that the insolvent laws of Massachusetts are not as to persons and cases within the purview of the Bankrupt Act completely suspended. Each system is to act upon the same subject matter, upon the same property, upon the same rights, and upon the same persons—creditors as well as debtors. Both cannot go on together without direct and positive collision; and the moment that the Bankrupt Act does, or may operate upon the person or property, that moment it virtually supersedes all State legislation.

And in the case of Griswold vs. Pratt, 9 Metcalf 16, it was subsequently held by the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, that while the United States Bankrupt act of 1841 was in force, proceedings against a debtor, under the insolvent laws of the State, were unauthorized and void, if the debtor and his property were subject to the operation of the Bankrupt act, although no proceedings under it were had against him. It was conceded in that case, as it has been by the complainant's counsel in this, that the effect of the Bankrupt law was necessarily to suspend all State laws with which it came in conflict; but it was contended there, as it has been in this case, and as was ruled in Zeigenfuss's case, 2 Iredell, 463, that a State insolvent law may exist and operate with full vigor, until the Bankrupt law attaches itself upon the person or property of the debtor, by proceedings instituted in bankruptcy; and that no case of conflict can arise until after the proceedings in bankruptcy have reached that state in which the debtor has been judicially declared a bankrupt. But this position, however plausible it may appear at first view, cannot, as the Court say, be sustained. The right to proceed under the insolvent law of the State, the bankrupt law being in full force, must be placed on a firmer basis than that of the failure of the insolvent to apply to the District Court of the United States for the institution of proceedings in Bankruptcy. If the proceedings under the insolvent law are valid at all, they must be valid to the extent of carrying out and perfecting such proceedings after they have once been instituted. Such effect has always been admitted to attach to proceedings legally commenced before the Bankrupt law went into operation, but then pending. Sound principle would require that, in all cases where proceedings could be legally instituted, they should have the legal capability of being perfected and closed, under the State law. But under the view taken of this question on all sides, and as conceded on the part of the plaintiff, the proceedings under the State insolvent law, by virtue of which he claims the property in controversy, might be wholly superseded and rendered void, at the will of the insolvent debtor, by filing his petition in bankruptcy, during any stage of the proceedings under the insolvent law, before his assets should be divided among his creditors.

There can be no doubt, as it seems to me, both upon reason and authority, that the present Bankrupt Act supersedes all local laws acting upon the same rights and affecting the same persons and the same property.

Second—And for the like reasons the Bankrupt Act suspends all proceedings under the act of 1842, by virtue of which the warrant in this case was issued. The very matters, charged in the affidavit of complainant as a ground or cause for the arrest of the defendant, constitute and are declared to be acts of bankruptcy under the provisions of the 39th section of the act and for which an ample remedy is provided by the 40th section. By virtue of the provisions of this latter section the creditor, upon filing his petition, may obtain an order on the debtor to appear in five days from the service thereof and show cause why he should not be adjudged a bankrupt; and the Court may also, by its injunction, restrain the debtor and any person, in the meantime, from making any transfer or disposition of the debtor's property, and from any interference therewith; and if there is probable cause for believing that the debtor is about to leave the district, or to remove or conceal his goods and chattels, or his evidence of property, or make any fraudulent conveyance or disposition thereof, the Court may issue a warrant to the Marshal of the District commanding him to arrest the alleged bankrupt, and him safely keep, unless he shall give bail to the satisfaction of the Court for his appearance, from time to time, until the decision of the Court upon the petition, or the further order of the Court, and forthwith to take possession provisionally of all the property and effects of the debtor, and safely keep the same until the further order of the Court. The act, it will be seen, provides an ample and effectual remedy for all the matters complained of and charged against the defendant in this case. But the provisions of the act of 1842 are in direct conflict with the provisions of the Bankrupt act. The act of 1842 provides for the discharge of the defendant upon his paying the debt or demand with costs of suit; or upon his giving security to pay the same with interest within the time specified in the act, or upon his giving bond, with sureties, that he will not remove or assign his property with intent to defraud his creditors, or with a view to give a preference to a creditor for an antecedent debt until the demand of the complainant with costs shall be satisfied; or upon giving bond, with sureties, to take the benefit of the insolvent laws. The Bankrupt Act forbids all preferences, and sets them aside where they are made for the purpose of giving one creditor an advantage over another; and, as we have seen, it suspends the operation of the insolvent laws. It is therefore clearly in conflict with the Act of 1842, which recognizes and makes provision for such preferences, and is in some respects a supplement to the insolvent laws of the State.

Third—But, aside from the provisions of the Bankrupt Act, the warrant is irregular and cannot be legally enforced. It was not the intention of the Legislature, in adopting the Act of 1842, to authorize the arrest and imprisonment of a debtor, as a civil remedy in any case in which he could not be arrested and imprisoned before the passage of the act. But pending a levy on personal property by virtue of a fi. fa., the creditor, before the passage of the act, could not subject his debtor to imprisonment on a ca. sa. And if he could not, how can it be said that, by the provisions of the act of 1842, the defendant in this case cannot be arrested? If the act of 1842 had not been passed he could not be arrested pending the levy on the fi. fa., and it is only in a case where, by the provisions of the act he cannot be arrested, that a warrant can issue. But it is unnecessary to spend time in the further discussion of the subject. The question was decided by the District Court of Philadelphia, in the case of Neal vs. Perry, 4 Penn. L. J., 410. It was there held, in an able opinion delivered by the President Judge, that pending a levy on real estate, by virtue of a fi. fa., a warrant of arrest, under the act of the 12th of July, 1842, cannot issue against the defendant. If it be so, there is greater reason for holding that such a warrant cannot issue, pending a levy on personal property, by virtue of a fi. fa. in the hands of the Sheriff, which is regarded as satisfaction, for some purposes, by the law as long as it subsists.

The motion of defendant's counsel is, therefore, sustained on both grounds; and it is accordingly ordered that the warrant issued in his case be, and the same is hereby quashed.

Putting up Sweet Corn.

The time is near at hand when sweet corn will be ready to put up for winter use, and a few points in regard to curing the article will not be out of place:

Get the corn when the grains are in prime order for the table—when the corn is tenderest and the juices are sweetest. Boil the ears a few minutes, (not over five;) three is better than five. Then cut and lay away to dry. A fruit dryer is best; even moderately warm will do very well; or take any method that will soonest dry your corn, being always careful not to burn it; and do not lay in lumps or too thick together when drying, or it will soon mould. Around a stove, or where there is a fire, is a good place, always avoiding dampness, steam, etc.; put in sacks and hang away in a dry place, and your corn is fit for next winter's use. In using, you are to restore as near as possible to its original state. This is best done by first washing it to get out dust and husk, and then thoroughly soaking in water, the water being retained to boil it in.

I die a wretched sinner, and I leave to the world a worthless reputation, a wicked example, and a memory only fit to perish.

I leave to my parents sorrow and bitterness of soul all the days of their lives.

I leave to my brothers and sisters shame and grief, and reproach of their acquaintances.

I leave to my wife a widowed and broken heart, and a life of lonely struggling and suffering.

I leave to my children a tainted name, a ruined position, a pitiful ignorance, and the mortifying recollection of a father who by his life disgraced humanity, and at his premature death joined the great company of those who are never to enter the kingdom of God.

Model Composition.

The Essex Statesman says a boy in South Danvers wrote the following composition upon his native town, which it thinks is very good for a schoolboy:

South Danvers is in the United States. It is bounded by Salem and reaches to Middleton. Its principal river is Goldthwaite's brook, which empties into Salem Harbor. Its principal lake is the mill pond, which is dry in the summer. Its principal productions are leather, onions, the South Church and George Peabody. South Danvers has many religious sects, among which are the Orthodox, who worship their minister, the Spiritualists, who worship everything, and the Unitarians, who worship nothing.

SINGULAR DEATH.—A washerwoman known as "Old Kate," living on the South Side, died recently of a disease which baffled the skill of every physician in the country. Her stomach seemed to be affected in a singular manner. No medicine that was administered had any effect upon her, and her malady increased with time. At last she died a most horrible death. In order to satisfy their curiosity, it was resolved among the medical men who had attended her to hold a post mortem examination of her body. Dr. Hasse opened the body when a number of large crabs, alive and active, were found disporting themselves. They were doubtless the cause of her death. She had probably drank the eggs in water, which developing, had become crabs.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A NATURAL CURIOSITY.—In a cave in the Virtud, in the southern part of the department of Choluteca, Honduras, there is a natural curiosity, called the "Fountain of Blood." This fountain consists of a stream of fluid resembling blood, which drops steadily from the roof of the cave upon the floor beneath. It forms pools of coagulated matter upon the floor, and imparts its color to a small brook which flows from the cave. The liquid has not only the color, but the taste and smell of blood, and when exposed to the air for a short time emits a very offensive odor. No satisfactory analysis has been made of it, and various theories have been advanced concerning it.

Corner Stone of the Cameron Bridge Laid with Masonic Ceremonies—The Cameron Railroad Progressing Rapidly.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

KANSAS CITY, MO., August 21.—The corner stone of the Cameron Railroad bridge across the Missouri river at this point was laid this afternoon with Masonic ceremonies, under the immediate direction of Jno. D. Vincil, Grand Master, amid great enthusiasm. Over five thousand people, including delegates from Leavenworth, Wyandotte, Independence and other towns in the vicinity, were assembled on the banks of the river to witness the ceremony. Assurance is given by Mr. Chanute, the chief engineer, that the structure will be completed in one year. The Bridge will be iron, 1400 feet long, with a draw in the channel of the river of 362 feet, six stone piers, with spans of 250 feet, and will have a carriage way as well as railroad track. This bridge, with the one now building across the Mississippi at Quincy, will give us through connection, without breaking bulk, with New York and Boston, making Kansas City a distributing point of considerable commercial importance.

One hundred track layers commenced work on the Cameron road on Monday, and the iron is being laid at the rate of one mile daily. Arrangements relative to the work on the Kansas City and Fort Scott road have been brought to a final settlement, insuring the early completion of that road.

THE DEMOCRACY.

County Convention—Ticket Nominated—Resolutions Adopted.

The delegates elected by the Democracy of the several districts of the county on Saturday last, met in Convention yesterday at the Court House, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for Assembly and various county offices. Having assembled, Thomas J. Keenan, Esq., Chairman of the County Executive Committee, read a letter from General George W. Cass, Chairman of the County Committee of Correspondence, (absent from the city) designating Mr. Keenan as the proper person to call the Convention to order.

Mr. Keenan, in the performance of the duty assigned him, made a few remarks, congratulating the Democracy on the auspicious circumstances under which they assembled. The appearances, he said, indicated their speedy triumph. He eulogized Judge Sharswood, their candidate for the Supreme Bench, characterizing him as one of the most experienced and upright judicial officers in the State. Referring to the primary object of the Convention, Mr. K. urged the selection of good men as candidates for Assembly as the only means by which they could hope to succeed at the October election.

J. C. Barr, Esq., and Mr. Uriah Stewart having been chosen temporary Secretaries, the credentials of delegates were called for. The cities and boroughs were fully represented and thirty-six of the townships.

The credentials having been passed upon, on motion of R. H. Kerr, T. J. Keenan, Esq. was chosen permanent President of the Convention, and the following additional officers were elected:

Vice Presidents—Henry McCullough, Francis H. Klein, Valentine Short, R. H. Kerr, Jacob Hockuly, J. C. Buffum, and Barnes Ford.

Secretaries—U. Stewart and John C. Barr.

Mr. Kerr moved that a committee of five be appointed on Resolutions. Agreed to, and Messrs. R. H. Kerr, Joseph S. Lare, R. P. Flenniken, D. H. Williams and John H. Murray, were appointed as said committee.

Mr. James Irvin submitted the ordinary rules for the government of the Convention, which were adopted.

The following resolution was submitted by R. H. Kerr, (the irresistible,) and adopted:

Resolved, That the members of this Convention are hereby constituted the Committee of Correspondence for the ensuing year, and that the President of the Convention be chairman of said Committee; that the delegates be requested to make out a list of two Democrats from each district and present the same at the first meeting, to act as committee of vigilance for their respective places, with postoffice address of each member. The activity of the people is required at this election to defeat an insolent and presumptuous foe. The triumph of the Democrats in Pennsylvania will be hailed all over the Union as the death knell of destructives.

The Convention then took a recess till one and a half o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. Kerr, as instructed by the Committee, submitted the following:

The Democracy in Convention assembled feel deeply anxious for the prosperity of all parts of our common country, which should be united in fraternal affection. We would rejoice to see the day when the people would no longer be cursed with sectional strife by a sectional party, which prevents the Southern States from representation under the Constitution. The trade of all parts of our country is necessary for our merchants and manufacturers, which would enable them to reap that rich reward by sending, as of yore, their wares and merchandise from the North to all parts of the South. At present business men find trade languishing, money scarce, and our people crippled in their energies, owing to the ill-advised and senseless plans adopted by Congress. The South, if left to themselves, would be found hand in hand with the North in restoring the Union and the country to prosperity and the masses of the people to useful and lucrative employment. But owing to the interference of meddlesome politicians, who have kept the nation in turmoil, by wandering mountebanks engendering hostile feelings, and who are alike destitute of principle and integrity, and determined on making the white population subservient to the negroes by degrading the former by the elevation of the latter, this is impossible.

The national debt is large and pressing hard on the people, which in good faith must be met and paid. National honor demands our national credit to be maintained. We can overcome all, providing the people are left undisturbed by those entrusted with power in our National Congress, and who unfortunately use their position to keep the country in perpetual trouble by bad legislation. The present state of affairs look dark and will be darker yet if we continue in the present destructive course laid down by the dominant party.

The only hope left is in the good common sense of the voters, who of right are growing restive under the burdens they have to bear, and very properly inquire what benefit they may derive from the lavish expenditure of money, to support in idleness the depraved and vicious in the work of destruction of national faith. Mechanics and laborers out of employment, workshops and forges closed, where the smoke and din of factories are no longer seen or heard; industry, toil and enterprise are lulled into sleepless indifference on account of the suspension of business from the ruinous policy of faithless holding power. Narrow minded blockheads, who are in place by deception and fraud, should be made to feel the indignation of a much wronged people.

The policy which prevents the merchant and manufacturer selling his goods, and the capitalists from investing funds, and the mechanic and laborer from earning a living for himself and family, should be crushed out by the power of the American people. Let this be accomplished and the nation will rise and prosper as in the days of the old hero Jackson, who was a terror to the enemies of our country. Under his wise administration, when patriots and statesmen held power, the National Debt was wiped out, the people made secure under the rule of Democracy.

The Republicans in Convention at Williamsport made the astounding declaration "that the Supreme Court of the State should be placed in harmony with the political opinions" they hold. Will the people submit their liberties to a court so constituted? A more infamous resolution was never penned, and the lawyer who will take his stand on such, should be repudiated by all who regard the safety of the citizens. Judge Williams owes it to his reputation to dash such a platform to pieces. Let the people remember this when they come to vote for Supreme Judge. Therefore,

Resolved, That in Judge Sharswood we have a candidate honored for his integrity, legal ability, and wide and unblemished reputation. For twenty years he has adorned the bench of the District Court of Philadelphia. The Bar of that city unanimously testifies to his ability. The confidence of all parties, where he is known, stamp him as a sound jurist, and "as a magistrate, a suspicion of unfairness or partiality has never been raised against him." His election will reflect honor on the intelligence of the voters of his own State.

Resolved, That in a country, when prosperous, the people should be protected. We look upon the rejection of the tariff by Congress as drying up the fountains of our wealth, paralyzing the industry of our citizens, extinguishing the fires in our forges and workshops, by depriving the people of useful employment. The voters, who are the power in our Government, should feel and know by this time that their confidence has been misplaced. It is the first duty of Congress to afford proper protection to American enterprise against foreign competition. The tariff should be regulated by law to keep the trade at all times in favor of our own country. This would be beneficial to all classes now denied by the party in power.

Resolved, That the wealth of a nation depends on the labor and prosperity of the masses. We extend a welcome to our shores to all who may flee from oppression, and be ye as numerous as the stars under Heaven, or the sands of the ocean, the Democracy will greet you all. We treat with scorn and contempt the insult offered by the Republican Convention to tax foreigners, which is at war with the spirit of the Declaration of Independence. We say, come to the land of Washington, be Americans. That the men who formed the Constitution in 1787, did it for a perfect Union, now denied by the party in power by arbitrary laws at war with domestic tranquility. The men of that day did not recognize negro suffrage, nor will we sanction such an innovation on long established and well founded principles. The Democracy (only) recognize the right of the white man to govern in State and National affairs. The negro had no power under the teachings of the wise men of '76 and '77. The Democracy will emulate their prudent policy. We bar the door.

Resolved, That we cannot recognize any paper as Democratic which does not place the name of our candidate for Supreme Judge at its head. We look to the Post as the true exponent of Democratic principles in our county, and recommend it as worthy of confidence and support from all true Democrats who do battle against negro reconstructionists.

Resolved, That the Connellsville Railroad to Cumberland is important to our people, and should be encouraged by the Legislature. It will develope the resources of adjacent counties in the western portion of the State, and we urge on those nominated to use their best exertions, in case of their election, to restore the original charter.

Resolved, That we are in favor of a Free Railroad law, providing such is made by individual enterprise, without taxation on the people of our county.

Resolved, That the victory achieved over the common enemy for Democratic principles in "Old Kentuck" fills our hearts with gratitude for the noble bravery of true patriots. The land of Clay spurns the tyrant's will. Kentucky stands redeemed from the disgrace of negro equality. All hail to her noble Democracy! Pennsylvania sends greeting and their thanks. God speed the people in their deliverance from Congressional despots.

The report of the Committee was accepted.

Mr. Williams announced that he had a minority report to present, which was to strike out all after the preamble and the resolution endorsing Judge Sharswood.

Mr. J. S. Murray moved the adoption of the report as submitted.

Mr. John Sawyer, of Collins, in the midst of a very considerable confusion, made a speech in support of the resolutions which he offered, endorsing President Johnson, but without avail, the Convention insisting upon a vote on the report of the Committee, which being taken the report was adopted.

Mr. Sawyer would not be choked off, and submitted his resolutions, which were as follows:

WHEREAS, Andrew Johnson in his persistent resistance to the encroachments of the Radical Republican majority in Congress, and by his uniform sustenance of Democratic measures, abiding by the Constitution, the laws and the will of the people, has entitled himself to the esteem of the patriots of the country; therefore,

Resolved, That the thanks of the Democracy of Allegheny county are hereby tendered to him for his firmness and ability in sustaining the Union against its greatest foes, the Radical Republicans.

Resolved, That in the removal of Edwin M. Stanton, we recognize the breaking of the first link in the chain which prevents a union of the elements opposed to the organized encroachments upon our liberties and the Constitution of our country.

Resolved, That we hereby pledge Andrew Johnson, the President of the United States, our united and hearty support in his patriotic struggles to preserve unimpaired the institutions handed down to us by a noble ancestry, our glorious Constitution, and the freedom, independence and happiness which we had attained during its observance.

Mr. Kerr disapproved of the resolutions and urged the pursuance of the policy of the State Convention, which decided that it was impolitic for the Democracy to endorse President Johnson. The resolutions were squelched—indefinitely postponed.

Nominations having been made for State Senator, two ballots were taken, resulting:

	First.	Second.
Frank Sellers	43	46
James P. Barr	47	50
James H. Hopkins	27	16

Mr. Barr was then on motion declared the unanimous choice of the Convention.

The balloting for Assembly resulted as follows:

W. M. Murray	50	Alfred Kerr	23
Peter Ivery	21	J. F. Richards	3
Samuel McKee	58	A. W. Foster	10
Col. Jas. A. Gibson	35	W. McCormick	42
James Salisbury	40	Aug. Hartje	64
Christ. Feld	33	Michael Kirk	2
U. Stewart	50	Geo. Motherall	12
Wm. T. Farley	25	Jas. H. Hopkins	68
Francis Sellers	65

Messrs. Hopkins, Sellers, Hartje, McKee, Murray and Stewart, having received the highest number of votes, were declared the nominees of the Convention. A motion was then adopted declaring their nomination unanimous.

For County Commissioner Alfred Anschutz was nominated, receiving fifty-five votes, against forty-nine for Joseph Lofink.

For Jury Commissioner (the only office the Democracy have any show of electing, the law providing for the selection of one Commissioner from each political party,) there was quite a contest. The first ballot resulted in no choice, as follows:

Chas. P. Whiston	14	Wm. Griffin	26
Wm. Bryant	34	J. C. McAuley	7
John C. Davitt	8	Nicholas Carr	2
Andrew Large	3	John Creegan	1
Chas. Bryson	7

The second ballot resulted:

Wm. Griffin	32	Chas. Bryson	7
Wm. Bryant	27	J. C. McAuley	3

Mr. Griffin was declared nominated.

The other nominations were as follows: Prothonotary—John A. Elder, of Pittsburgh.

Treasurer—A. J. Baker, of Pittsburgh.

Coroner—Michael Lipp, of Birmingham.

Director of the Poor—Henderson Wightman.

The Convention then adjourned.

Allegheny Temperance League.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of this Association was held on Tuesday evening, in the Presbyterian Church, Market street, Fifth ward.

Rev. J. S. Clark, D. D., presided, and W. F. Warren, Esq., acted as Secretary. Prayer was offered by the Rev. A. K. Bell, D.D.

The preamble and resolutions offered at the last meeting, together with the substitute, were then read.

Mr. Gallaher moved the adoption of the substitute, which is as follows:

Resolved, That final action on the foregoing resolutions be deferred until after the nomination of officers for the coming election, in the hope that men of the right stamp will be taken up and put in nomination for our support; when, if such men be not nominated, then the full intent of the foregoing resolutions shall be immediately carried out.

Rev. J. B. Clark, who had been announced as a speaker, said that he would make his speech on the resolutions. He announced himself a radical temperance man. The election of good men to office was a matter of the first importance. He would vote for no others, but was in favor of deferring action until after the meeting of the County Convention, to see if worthy and reliable men are nominated. If said Convention fails to do so, then we are free to act independently for the public good.

George W. Bradley, Esq., spoke of the great importance of nominating true and tried men for the Legislature. He strongly urged all present to attend the primary meetings and make their votes tell.

Rev. A. K. Bell, D. D., spoke in favor of now adopting the original resolutions. With the addition of a couple of planks, one of which was equal rights and privileges to all the citizens of the State, he was prepared to join the temperance party and wage war against rum at the ballot box. He severely censured the members of the last Legislature from this county, for the enactment of the present license law, the baneful effects of which are distinctly seen in a great increase of rowdyism and drunkenness.

M. McGonnigle, Esq., advocated the original resolutions. He wanted action. We had talked and resolved long enough. It was now time to work and make our votes tell in the election of sober, capable and reliable men.

George R. Cochran, Esq., said that he was a friend of temperance and would under no circumstances vote for an intemperate man for any office, but thought it too late to call a convention and nominate a ticket with hopes of success. He urged the election of a capable and upright man to the Legislature instead of the miserable trash that is frequently sent. He also depicted, in forcible language, the evils resulting to individuals and to the entire community from the use of intoxicating drinks.

Rev. A. G. Kirk said that every moral means should be used to stay this mighty evil; but the most powerful engine for its correction was the ballot-box. He preferred to wait until the assembling of the Convention previously named, and if they failed to nominate suitable men, he would favor the nomination of a full and straight Temperance ticket.

Further remarks were made by Mr. Gallagher, Dr. Campbell and James Reno, Esq. The substitute was adopted by a decided majority.

The discussion was unusually earnest and the deepest interest manifested by the large audience. The various addresses indicated the fixed determination of the meeting to vote for none but temperate and capable men for office. The League Choir was present and sang in an admirable manner several stirring Temperance odes.

The next meeting of the League will be held next Tuesday evening in the Sandusky street Baptist Church.

French Authority on the First Award at the Exposition.

The Paris paper La Patrie says:

"The result of this grand international rivalry, opened by the Universal Exhibition of 1867, is, that only on two firms of piano manufacture has been conferred the supreme reward of the Cross of the Legion of Honor, viz: Messrs. Erard and Chickering—France and the United States. The great popularity of the Erard pianos allows me to pass them without commentary. Since the opening of the Exhibition—before it was opened—we had heard discussions about the tone of the pianos of the firm of Chickering & Sons, of Boston. The press almost unanimously occupied themselves on the subject; our great pianists, such as Henri Herz, Thalberg, etc., on their return from America, spoke about them with enthusiasm. As soon as the pianos were exhibited, we wished to report by seeing and hearing of this manufacture; we were compelled to acknowledge that they held the first place in piano manufacture. Young as yet in the way of art, America has surpassed all other nations in this manufacture, and the representatives of the different countries have had the good taste to acknowledge it. It was necessary to give this firm a reward which would place it above the others in the distribution of prizes, from the fact that their instruments had themselves placed them above all others in the superiority of their manufacture. The Jury understood this. It could only give the gold medal, but it nominated them at the same time for the Cross. The Emperor was pleased to award it. It was the only means to establish a notable distinction between Mr. Chickering and his rivals. It could only be given to the head of the eminent firm, but the prestige will also reflect on the intelligent mechanics who have co-operated with the chief to bring these pianos to such perfection. All America will understand that there is a long distinction between the Cross of the Legion of Honor and the medal, and that that award has a high signification."

Sudden Death of a Former Pittsburgher.

The St. Louis Democrat says:—Yesterday morning Mr. Wm. Aiken, of the Avenue stables, on Washington avenue, died in an apoplectic fit. Mr. Aiken, an hour before his death, had been out walking with an intimate friend, and stated that he never felt better in his life. His friend, in a jocular way, replied that he would be a dead man before night. The remark only elicited a laugh, but proved afterwards a prophetic announcement. The sorrow which this unexpected and sudden death will produce amongst his family and a large circle of friends will be general and poignant, for his extreme good nature, liberality and kind hearted disposition. A friend in need never went away from his threshhold empty handed. Last September he opened the Avenue stables in fine style, with splendid stock and premium vehicles. The building was erected with special reference to the convenience and sanitary welfare of the horse, and was acknowledged to be complete in all its appointments. Since that time the business of the establishment has been flattering and lucrative. Mr. Aiken owned the old Walton farm, on the Olive street road, and his father resided on a farm adjoining it. He leaves one brother in this city, who was preminently engaged during the war in supplying the government with beef, while another brother at present resides in Pittsburgh. He leaves a wife, but no children. We condole with the widow in the great loss which her little family circle has sustained, and trust the affliction which this sudden death has occasioned her may not be found unbearable.

The Sproull Murder.—On the trial of Thomas Whittaker, for the murder of Robert Sproull, which was taken up on Tuesday in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, for Washington county, Miss Sproull, sister of deceased, identified Whittaker as one of the murderers. She stated in her examination in chief that the man was not blacked, but on cross-examination said that their faces were partly blacked; that the parties who committed the deed had their faces blacked, so that her identification of Whittaker under the circumstances would be considerably weakened. The prosecution closed yesterday morning.

The attention of the police of the Fourth Ward, Allegheny, is specially directed to the corner of Lacock and Morgan streets, where Young America, both male and female, congregate on the sidewalk and keep up an incessant noise from early evening to late at night, to the great annoyance of those in the neighborhood who retire for rest. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

The Troy Hill Beer Houses.

It is a notorious fact that the Troy Hill beer sellers have entirely disregarded the Sunday liquor law, and that their sales on Sunday generally exceed those of any other day in the week. And as a natural consequence of such a gross violation of law, disgraceful rows are a regular Sunday occurrence. The citizens of the locality are beginning to tire of these proceedings, and a step has been taken in the right direction to put a stop to it. John Barrett appeared before Alderman Irwin, of the Ninth ward, yesterday, and made information against eight of these law breakers, Conrad Eberhard, Wm. Einstein, Peter Dunberger, Peter Miller, Joseph Lofinck, S. Haid, P. Haney and M. Gierstein, charging them with selling liquor on Sunday. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the parties, and it is confidently hoped by the law abiding portion of the citizens of the neighborhood that the practice will be broken up.

Opera House Commencement.

The improvements and repairs which have for some time past been under way at the Opera House will be completed today, and the opening entertainment of the season will be given Saturday evening. Mr. M. W. Canning, the acting manager, under whose personal supervision the arrangements for the coming season have been made, is a gentleman of rare taste and marked ability for the position he occupies, and has shown a spirit of liberality and enterprise in his preparations to entertain the public, which cannot fail to be rewarded. The stock company is an excellent one, and engagements have been effected with a number of the leading stars in the profession, among whom are Forrest, Booth, and others of equal note. With such liberality as this on the part of the manager, and Harry Overington in the box, the Opera House is sure of success.

Larceny by Bailee.

John Mehan made information before Alderman McMasters, yesterday, charging Edward Lynch, Alderman of the Third ward, with larceny by bailee. He states that a firm in the city, with which he was employed, gave him a check on one of the city banks for $19.59, the amount due him for labor, and that on presenting the check at the bank he was informed that the firm had no money in bank. He then went to Lynch's office and stated the case to the Alderman, who told him to leave the check with him and he would get the money for him in twenty-four hours. The check was left as desired, and, as he alleges, the money was collected by Lynch, the firm holding his receipt in full for the amount of the check and costs of collection, and that he (Lynch) refused to pay over the amount. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Extorting Money.

Catherine Carter made information before Alderman McMasters yesterday, against Alderman Edward Lynch, of the Third ward, charging him with extorting money under color of office. The prosecutor was some time since prosecuted for perjury, and the bill ignored by the Grand Jury. She alleges that she went to Alderman Lynch to make information against the parties who had charged her with perjury, and that he (Lynch) required her to pay him the sum of ten dollars, saying that he would attend to the matter. Finding that no warrant had issued for the parties, she returned and demanded the ten dollars which was refused, and he also refused to issue a warrant as she requested, or as she expressed it, he kept her money and would not give her any law. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

House Carpenters.

Among the most experienced, careful and skillful mechanics engaged in the house carpentry and building business are Messrs. Yoest Brothers, No. 459 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, and 15 Pearl street, Bloomfield. These gentlemen, four brothers, have had large experience and fully understand every department of their trade. They devote care and attention to all jobs and contracts entrusted to them and guarantee all work to prove satisfactory. From personal acquaintance with the firm and full knowledge of their superior claims as first-class mechanics, we are prepared to earnestly commend these gentlemen to the patronage of our readers. See their card in another column.

Return of the Alleghenians.

The members of the Allegheny Base Ball Club, who have been so creditably representing our State at the World tournament in Detroit, returned home yesterday and have been receiving the congratulations of their friends. The members express themselves highly delighted with the kind treatment and generous hospitality extended them by the citizens of Detroit. They are justly proud of their victories and only regret that they lost one game more through the fault of a partial but inexperienced umpire than their own bad playing. The boys will ever cherish their visit to Detroit as a bright epoch in the history of their Club, and in their behalf we acknowledge the courtesies they received during their absence.

Serious Accident.

John Campbell, who has for some time past been employed as a laborer in the sewer on Wood street, was discharged on Tuesday, and yesterday he came to where the men were at work, considerably intoxicated. In attempting to cross the sewer on one of the timbers he lost his balance and fell to the bottom of the excavation, a distance of fifteen feet. His face and body was considerably bruised, and it is thought he sustained some internal injuries. He was conveyed to his boarding house, near the Point, and medical aid summoned.

Cross Suits.—Samuel Turner is proprietor of a drinking establishment in the Ninth ward, and John Cannon is one of his customers. They got into a difficulty and Cannon behaving himself in a disorderly manner, was forcibly put out of the bar room by Turner. Cannon made information before Alderman Irwin, of the Ninth ward, charging Turner with assault and battery, and the latter returned the compliment by making information against Cannon for disorderly conduct. Warrants were issued in both cases.

Randol's Improved Can.—The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement in another column of Becker, Ross & Co., proprietors and manufacturers of Randol's improved patent can, adapted to white lead, putty, spices, &c., &c., No. 191 Ohio street, Allegheny City. This is in all respects superior to any can in the market, and is sold at very reasonable prices. The firm engaged in its manufacture are fair dealing and clever gentlemen, and we bespeak for them a large share of the public patronage.

Street Car Difficulty.—Thomas P. Wright alleges that he was unceremoniously ejected from a street car in Lawrenceville, Tuesday evening, by the conductor and driver, whose names he did not know. He made information against them before Alderman Taylor, for assault and battery, and the officer entrusted with the warrant will find them out. It is most probable, however, that there is another side to the story, as street car conductors are not likely to put men off the cars who conduct themselves in a gentlemanly manner.

Committed.—Joseph Stewart, charged with burglary, on oath of James Godfrey, had a hearing before Mayor Morrison, of Allegheny city, yesterday, and in default of $500 bail was committed to answer the charge at court.

Joseph Smalley, charged before Justice Heisel, of East Birmingham, on oath of his wife, with disorderly conduct and refusing to support and abandoning his family, was committed, yesterday, to answer at court.

Woman Assaulted.—Michael Connell was before Alderman Thomas yesterday on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Mary Connell, who alleges that the defendant kicked her several times on various parts of her body, and also caught her by the throat, choked and otherwise abused her. A hearing was had when the case was withdrawn, the parties settling it between themselves. They reside at Laughlins Station on the Connellsville Railroad.

Discharged.—Celia Burns, whose arrest we noticed yesterday, was discharged by Alderman McMasters yesterday morning, before whom she had been brought for a larceny. Mr. Fetterman, the prosecutor, failed to appear. She was taken to Temperanceville, where it appears there are other charges against her.

Who Were They?—Two men, names unknown, met John Ritchie in the Fifth ward, a few days ago, and beat him shamefully. He made information yesterday before Alderman Taylor against the unknown parties, and the officers are after them, with a fair prospect of capturing the scamps.

Return Match.—To-morrow afternoon, at two o'clock, the Atlantic Base Ball Club will play a return match with the Lincoln Club at Union Park, Allegheny. As both clubs embrace skillful and experienced players, a good time may be expected by all who attend.

Shoe Thief Arrested.—Officer McCready last evening arrested a boy named Johnson, about fifteen years of age, residing in Duquesne borough, charged on oath of Mr. Lane, of the firm of Lane & Carter, with stealing shoes. He was locked up for a hearing to-day.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

The office of Secretary of War is not a military one. It is as purely civil as that of Secretary of State. No officer of the army is assignable to it by virtue of his military rank. Indeed, if a Brigadier General or junior Major General should be placed therein, all the officers of superior grade to him would doubtless insist that he should resign one commission or the other, and, in case of refusal, would throw up their own in obedience to a sense of honor. This dilemma is obviated when the Secretaryship of War is held by the General-in-Chief, because he ranks all other army officers.

But it may well be questioned if it is proper for the one person to hold at the same time a high command in the army and a high civil appointment. It would certainly be felt to be decidedly out of place to make the General-in-Chief Secretary of the Treasury or Attorney General. But these two Cabinet offices are in the same category as the others, including the headship of the War Department.

If General GRANT shall be elected President, it will be felt suitable, if not indispensable, for him to surrender the office he now holds in the army; and this none the less because the fact that the President is at the head of military as well as civil affairs. This would be seen still clearer if General GRANT should be elected to a seat in either House of Congress, or to be elevated to the Supreme bench.

Attention was recently called to the circumstance that General KILPATRICK was holding his place in the army while serving as Minister to one of the South American States. No man of sense can doubt but that this is irregular and of mischievous tendency, no matter what may be the personal character or military services of the General.

We do not understand that General GRANT was assigned to the administration of the War Department in virtue of his military rank. He could not be. He was designated precisely as any civilian might have been.

President JOHNSON in appointing Gen. GRANT to the War Department had the warrant of precedent on his side. Gen. SCOTT once had devolved on him the same duty.

Our design, therefore, is not to reflect either on President JOHNSON or General GRANT touching this matter, but to call attention to a practice which is at variance with republican simplicity, and in contravention of the spirit and intention of the laws.

REFORM IN ENGLAND.

The pressure of public opinion has at last constrained the British aristocracy to admit a large section of what they denominate the lower classes to participation in the Government. This concession is variously regarded by conservatives.

In the House of Lords the head of one of the oldest and most illustrious noble families declared that this extension of the franchise would simply compel the adoption of a thorough system of popular education. In this he was absolutely correct. Nothing can be plainer than that the system of education fostered in each country should have respect to the particular form of Government established therein. Under a military Government like that of Russia, it is chiefly important to educate soldiers; a few to command and the many to obey. Under a theocratic Government like that of Rome, it is of chiefest consequence to educate priests. Under an oligarcial Government, such as the British one has been for two hundred years, it has been of vitalist necessity to develop and equip an aristocracy. Under each of these forms, the few rule in the name of God, for their own benefit, and at the expense of the many. The systems of education that prevail in these countries, respectively, comports exactly with the forms of Government upheld therein. Complaints have, indeed, been often made that broader schemes of education were not devised and instituted; but these complaints have not been well-founded. So long as Governments by proscription remain, the educational plans must correspond thereto, or the particular form of Government will be undermined. As Great Britain has taken a long step towards popularizing its Government, it will now be forced to establish a system of education for the people. This done, the educational system will react on the Government at once, compelling still further ameliorations, until all the people shall share equally in the political power.

Other conservatives see this, and hence are filled with dismal forebodings. Among these is Mr. THOMAS CARLYLE, the profoundest thinker of England, if not of his age. Sprung from the common people, this great man has fallen a victim to hero worship. The drill sergeant is his ideal man. Force, in his conception, is the highest excellence; the chief utility. He deifies it. In his system the people are only so many brutes, whom it is the bounden duty of the select few to overpower and compel to do their bidding.

In a powerful essay he has developed his view of the inevitable tendency of the Reform bill. He regards it as a Niagara plunge, which must result in the demolition of the monarchy and in the degradation of the entire population. He counsels the aristocracy by title and by nature, to unite and make common cause against innovation; nay, to carry the government back to a complete despotism. He does not hesitate to affirm that the truest idea of government is one hundred thousand superior men holding a million inferior ones steadily to their work.

Mr. CARLYLE was born some centuries too late. The people of England will not accept him as an inspired guide, or as any leader whatever. They have outgrown the political institutions of the Middle Ages, and will not go back thereto, no matter how earnestly he may entreat them.

THE DELEGATE SYSTEM.

MESSRS. EDITORS: In my article yesterday, I referred mainly to the gross inequality of representation, which, under the most favorable circumstances, would give the control of the County Convention to a very small minority, perhaps not the tenth part of the actual voters, even if every Republican in the county were to attend in person at the primary meetings, from which consideration it is apparent that under present auspices a fair expression of the popular sentiment is absolutely unattainable.

Before leaving this point it may, however, be worth while to inquire how many people are actually represented in these important conclaves which undertake the business of deciding without appeal, for whom you and I and every other Republican shall be allowed to vote.

I suppose it will be conceded that, unless in the exceptional case of some office, of profit about the Court House, where the candidates have been around through the country enlisting the people specially in their particular interests, the average of attendants at these primary meetings would not be more than a dozen to each. Nobody can deny that it is no unusual thing for such an assemblage to consist of only the predestined delegates themselves, with perhaps some two or three other persons who have been personally and pressingly invited, or rather urged by them to come and assist at the solemn farce by way of giving to it a respectable coloring. We know the fact that on some occasions the people of important townships do not think it worth while to hold any meetings at all, and that the vacancies thus produced are publicly supplied by another process equally absurd and as unmistakably indicative of the estimation in which the popular sentiment is held, and the value set by those bodies themselves upon the popular vote, which is the selection from the bystanders of a couple of talesmen, who are sure to be on hand, and probably brought there by the managers for that purpose, and are thus invested with the high privilege of making a ticket for the party. Nothing, therefore, can be clearer, I think, than the fact that these conventions, even supposing them to be always faithful exponents of the will of those who elected them, do not, as a general thing, hold their high and important commissions from a tithe of the people. That they should have been tolerated so long in the face of so obvious a truth, and of such fruits as they have borne in the selection of candidates, is only to be accounted for by a long habit of obedience, and the frightful apathy that it has engendered.

It does not follow, however, and it is not by any means intended to admit that equality in representation will cure such evils as are now afflicting us. The mischief is inherent in the system itself, because it involves not the exercise of a right by the voter himself, but the surrender to third persons, without necessity, of a power which he cannot safely delegate, and can properly only exercise himself. If you ask him to go to a primary meeting, it is not to indicate his choice of candidates, but to invest some two other persons, whom he would not perhaps be inclined to choose himself, with the high prerogative of deciding for him upon the candidates for whom he shall be allowed to vote.

The essence of democracy is that the citizen shall exercise his power, as far as practicable, in his proper person, and always so in the giving of his vote. Hence the proxy is now, on principle, admissable. The doctrine of representation only steps in where a personal performance is impossible, as in the case of deliberative assemblies for the purpose of making laws, where matters are discussed and opinions exchanged, and a large discretion in the representative is absolutely necessary. The case is not so here. It is one merely of election amongst candidates. Nominating Conventions do not meet to deliberate or discuss. Their business is only to do what the voter can do himself—with just as little inconvenience as he could attend a public meeting. It is not necessary that he should delegate this power, and he cannot safely do it. When he elects a member of the Legislature he retains his power over him because he is responsible at the next election. He cannot then control his delegates, and if he could it would be impossible to instruct them as to the selection of a whole ticket, because the meeting would be sure to divide on so large a field, although they might possibly unite upon a single candidate. The wishes and opinions therefore of every voter must be disappointed to some extent at all events, and as a consequence the delegates are free to do just as they please or just as somebody about the Court House bids them. Is this a power to be transferred to anybody, when the man who owns it may just as conveniently exercise it himself and can only give to his own opinions a practical weight by doing it?

Supposing, however, that the delegates are always honest—and I do not dispute that many of them may be so—how many men are there of the acquaintance of any one to whom we would be willing to surrender our own judgments and consciences in any other matter affecting us so deeply in its consequences, without appeal? It is only because we do not properly appreciate the importance of having wise and honest legislators, that we do not care how the delegates may dispose of their votes. We interest ourselves and grow red hot sometimes upon the election of a Sheriff or Prothonotary, which are paying offices, but mere ministerial ones, where good bail can be had and good clerks found to do the duties, if the principal cannot, just because we would like to see some personal friend in the enjoyment of the emoluments, and we turn the business of indicating who are to be the makers of our laws over to the uncontrollable and illimitable discretion of a set of irresponsible delegates, as though it were of no concern to us. The office does not pay, of course, in the hands of honest men except in the consciousness of a high duty honestly performed. It does and will pay in the hands of dishonest men, who are always sure to spare no available scheme to secure the managers and delegates. High-minded and independent men will not run after either, while they are the men properly, and none others, that the people want and ought to seek. They cannot much longer remain indifferent to this matter, and they must attend to it if they would save the State from utter ruin. They cannot, however, do it unless you will explode the present vicious and indefensible system and give them another, as you can do, that will enable them to make their voices heard, and inspire such an interest as will bring them to the work. What that other is I will explain hereafter. PITT.

Sheridan at Home.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial writes a pleasant sketch of a visit to the house of the Sheridan family in Somerset, Ohio. The family now consists of the father and mother, P. H. Sheridan, John L. Sheridan, Michael V. Sheridan, and the daughter and sister, Mary, who, about two years since, was married to Capt. John Wilson, who is a native of Perry county, but served through the war in a Michigan regiment. Mary is the only daughter, and since her marriage she and her husband live in the house with her parents. John Sheridan, father of the General, is apparently about 65 years of age, of sanguine temperament, a rugged, muscular, honest-looking Hibernian, and not afraid to work. He can be seen at almost any time cultivating or improving the little farm of twenty acres, that is now his care and pride. John L. is a lawyer by profession, and has recently removed to Columbus, Ohio. Michael V. has a commission in the army, and is on duty at New Orleans.

Concerning Sheridan's youth, we quote:

"Philip H. Sheridan was born at the City of Albany, State of New York, in February, 1831. His parents are natives of Ireland, county of Kerry. Their oldest child, Patrick, was also born in Ireland. About the year 1829, John Sheridan and wife, with their first born, bid farewell to their native land and came to America, their adopted and chosen home. They first located at Albany, N. Y., where as before stated, Phil. Sheridan was born. They resided there about five years. While Phil. was very young his parents removed to Somerset, Perry county, Ohio. The parents were in quite limited circumstances, and Phil's early experience was that of other boys similarly situated. When the turnpike was being built through Somerset, Phil's father used to own and drive a cart. Men of Phil.'s age tell us that they have often seen him hanging on his father's cart, and once in a while, when he would get to drive, he would be highly delighted. Phil. must have been regarded as a very honest boy, for while very young in years, he was taken by John Talbot, a hardware merchant, to serve in his store. He served Mr. Talbot satisfactorily about two years. After leaving Mr. Talbot, the subject of our sketch went to stand in the store of D. Whitehead, a dry goods merchant of Somerset. Here we believe he remained until he was appointed a cadet at West Point. Gen. Thos. Ritchie, a farmer living five miles east of Somerset, had been elected to Congress for the district composed of Perry, Morgan and Washington. Mr. Ritchie was a good judge of character. He was acquainted with young Sheridan, took a fancy to him and proposed to send him to West Point. Young Sheridan was willing, and his parents agreed to it. The lawyer who drew up the papers in the case, told me they were not very sanguine that he would be accepted on account of his size. He was very small for his age; but he was duly accepted, and took his place as an humble student at this great military school. In due course of time he graduated, received an appointment, and was placed on duty west of the Rocky Mountains. Here, in some encounter with the Indians, he won and received his first promotion. There was not much opportunity to achieve military distinction there; but at length the war came on, and his subsequent military career is well known. An incident is related by a friend that will give some little insight into his character as a boy. A travelling bookseller was stopping with his books at a hotel in Somerset. Phil. Sheridan, then about nine or ten years of age, stepped up, and in a loud, clear, yet respectful tone, inquired, 'Have you any thing on the human voice?' The man had not the kind of book desired, but the inquiry was a little unusual from a boy of his age. We ask men of about the same age as Phil., and who knew him in Somerset when a boy, what they remember of him, and the general reply is that they remember him as a short-legged little boy, who could run and jump in the dust or mud equal to any boy in the town; that he was a manly little fellow, an inveterate talker, and as 'sharp as there was any use of.' The talking part, as we all know, Phil. has left off. He must have said it nearly all when he was a boy.

"Your correspondent was in Somerset about seventeen years ago, while Phil. was yet a student at West Point. At the time he was at home on a furlough. We remember seeing him in his cadet uniform, in his slippers and white socks, stepping about town and calling upon his friends. He had an independent, satisfied air, and seemed greatly at peace with himself and the world. We met him at a large, social dance. He chose a partner and went through a cotillion or two, in a sort of abstracted, careless way, and there were many young bloods there that altogether outshone him in the "giddy dance." Your correspondent, with others, thought a young man being educated at public expense for the trade of war, in a country that would be at peace for the next fifty years, was no very great shakes, after all.

"Gen. Sheridan was at home for a day or two at a time during the war—once when he was transferred from the West to the East, and on one other occasion. He was literally besieged, at a hotel in Zanesville, and preparations were being made for some kind of a great demonstration. But the General, by the aid of a friend, made his escape out the back way, and was far on his way to Somerset before it was known that he had left the city. The people of Somerset also thought they must make a regular demonstration in honor of the distinguished soldier. They marched in regular procession to the suburban residence of the Sheridan family, and a citizen was appointed to perpetrate a written address at the General. Phil. came out, and the people gathered upon the green in the yard in front of the dwelling. He listened respectfully to the address, but all the while kept shaking hands with the little girls and boys who gathered near him. At the close he simply thanked the people for the demonstration of respect. General Sheridan never means to be disrespectful to the people, but he has such a distaste of being the center or subject of a "scene," that he always avoids it if he can in any sort of civil manner.

"Phil. has always had great affection for his parents, and keeps up a regular correspondence with them and the other members of the family. Ever since he has had a commission in the army, he has helped his parents much, and assisted them in purchasing and improving the home that they now occupy. He also looked well to the education of his brothers and sisters."

—The English captives in Abyssinia have been released from danger without their country having to go to war to accomplish it. As is well known, a rebellion of large proportions exists in Abyssinia, and the rebels have been steadily gaining ground against the king. The London Times has intelligence that through the agency of this rebellion the English captives have been taken out of the hands of King Theodore. The rebels have apparently overpowered him. The king has been separated from his European prisoners, who are now pronounced safe from any danger of falling into his power again. The captives, however, are not yet free. They are, probably, in the custody of some of Theodore's lieutenants. But, at all events, the position of affairs in Abyssinia is changed. The prisoners are relieved from imminent danger, and being placed beyond the control of the only man whose covetousness and vindictiveness they had reason to dread, there are better hopes of their deliverance. England can now negotiate for their release, and will probably very quickly buy their freedom. This good news has got her out of a very awkward dilemma, for when the prisoners were in the hands of King Theodore she felt compelled to make war for their release, yet did not know exactly how to go about it.

—An association has been formed in New Orleans which promises to bind together men of all employments, trades, and professions, irrespective of parties and past associations, in a kind of universal exchange, where a moderate contribution from each will secure good reading rooms and places for the interchange of views or the transaction of business, to which will be added, in due time, a library and lecture on all useful subjects.

LADIES,
If you are afflicted with lassitude; if, on rising in the morning, you feel unrefreshed, with a bad taste in the mouth; a disgust for food; a constant desire to rest, it is time something should be done to stop the growing evil. We know of no preparation more highly adapted to all afflictions of this description than
HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.
For mother's nursing this great tonic should always be taken, especially where the mother's nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child, consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is needed to impart temporary
STRENGTH AND VIGOR
to the whole system. Ladies should by all means try this remedy, and before so doing ask your physician, who, if he is acquainted with its virtues, will recommend its use in all cases. As a MEDICAL AGENT,
it has no equal, while its pleasing flavor and healthful effects have made it a general favorite. It is free from all properties calculated to impair the system, and its operations are at once mild, soothing and efficient. All who have used the BITTERS attest its virtues and commend it to use.

CURE OF FISTULA.
DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases, which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which I had been advised to "let alone" on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten on my lungs. I knew that the popular mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to a discharge which I was constrained to believe was a salutary provision of Nature to get rid of some morbid condition in the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying to the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also add that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.
Yours, gratefully, J—— C——.
Dr. Keyser's consultation rooms are No. 120 Penn street, from 9 A. M. until 4 p. m.

PROSPECTUS
"ECLIPSE"
PETROLEUM REFINING CO.,
OF PITTSBURGH, PA.
CAPITAL, - - - $500,000.
5,000 SHARES, $100 EACH.
This Company is to be organized to manufacture Petroleum Illuminating Oil, under patents granted to Dr. HERBERT W. C. TWEDDLE. The Patents, Works, Grounds, &c., become the exclusive property of the Company.
The property on which the "Eclipse" Oil Refining Works are constructed adjoins the Sharpsburg Bridge, and consists of five or six acres. It presents a frontage on the Allegheny river of about five hundred feet. There is always deep water at this point even at the lowest stage of the river, and there is a safe harbor from ice during the winter. The Allegheny Valley Railway passes directly in front of the works on the bank of the river. The Citizens' Passenger Railway has its terminus at the works. The Sharpsburg Bridge crosses the Allegheny river opposite the works. At Sharpsburg the Western Pennsylvania Railway Company has erected a station, spacious freight houses, etc.
The Works, when completed, are designed to refine one thousand barrels of oil per diem.
The following are a few of the advantages resulting from Dr. Tweddle's new process:
The business is entirely divested of all its present dangerous and hazardous character.
There is no fire used beneath the boilers—steam being the only agent employed.
The use of acids and alkalies are entirely dispensed with, and the oil produced is made better and purer without them. Besides, the fire test is made higher by this process and the oil a safer illuminator, and almost odorless.
The whole apparatus is under the control of one operator, whether one hundred or one thousand barrels of oil per day are manufactured. The duty of this operator consists in the opening and closing of a few valves. There is no tar or coke to be cleaned out, and the apparatus can be started and stopped in a few seconds, thereby entirely doing away with the necessity of working on the Sabbath day.
There is no bad odor generated in the manufacture of oil by this process, and no destruction to the apparatus. The waste gasses are utilized as fuel, and the residuum is distilled producing oil equal in all respects to that from West Virginia and Ohio.
By this process oil can be produced at a cost of one dollar per barrel less than by any other in use, and at the same time a greater per centage is obtained. Less amount of capital is required to carry on the business, for the reason that the crude material is so rapidly and entirely transformed into the marketable product. There are many and various facts which the operations of manufacturing oil by this process will demonstrate to the observer, and which are not enumerated here.
The "Eclipse" is the thirteenth Refinery constructed by Dr. Tweddle in this vicinity. They number amongst them our largest and most successful; the Petrona, Excelsior, Brilliant, Eagle, Standard, &c. He deems this one worthy of the his best efforts, and will bring the benefit of his experience to make it complete and satisfactory to the stockholders.
Only One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars worth of the Capital Stock of the Eclipse Petroleum Refining Company will be disposed of.
The Books are now open at the office of
S. M. KIER & CO.,
No. 359 Liberty Street,
NEAR THE UNION RAILWAY DEPOT.
Specimens of the products can be examined, and compared with those by the old processes, at S. M. Kier & Co.'s Office.
Cards of admission to the Works can be obtained of Dr. TWEDDLE, when subscribers can have the rationale of the process explained.

BELTING AND PACKING OFFICE OF W. & A. J. PACKARD,
Youngstown, Ohio, June 17th, 1867.
Messrs. Burke & Barnes, Pittsburgh, Pa.
GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 6th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably disappointed. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours,

UNITED STATES COURT.

The Blair County Counterfeiting Case—Mr. Purviance and District Attorney Carnahan Address the Jury.

The United States District Court reassembled at ten o'clock Wednesday morning, and resumed the trial of William Johnston, of Blair county, indicted for selling counterfeit fractional currency.

Mr. Purviance closed the argument to the jury on behalf of the defense. He first referred to the anomaly (as he claimed it to be) of a man, in the evening of his days, (having attained the age of almost threescore,) whose whole life had been characterized by honesty and nobility of soul, and who had acquired a comfortable competence, being arraigned for crime—for the paltry sum of forty dollars blackening his character and bringing disgrace and obloquy upon his married children and those who still clustered round him at his home. The charge against him was sustained by but a single witness, who stood before the jury not only uncorroborated but contradicted in material matters. The improbabilities of the guilt of the defendant, arising out of all the evidence, the circumstances and surroundings of the case, were such as should cause the jury not to hesitate long in making up their verdict of acquittal. Mr. Purviance occupied two hours, concluding a very elaborate review of the case at twelve o'clock.

District Attorney Carnahan made the closing argument to the jury. Having explained the law pertaining to the case, he indulged in some remarks concerning the crime of counterfeiting. The counsel for the defense had not raised any legal question, or adverted to the law, or acts of Congress, upon which the indictment was based, and hence had impliedly admitted that if the evidence for the Government was believed the crime was made out. They had confined themselves to attacking the character of the Government witness. Counterfeiting was designated as crimen falsi, the crime of falsehood. The crime itself was falsehood, falsehood was its constant attendant, and the shield of the offenders in the sanctuary of justice. The great evil of the crime was that it tended to uproot the foundations of society, destroying confidence between man and man; perjury followed in its train, was ordinarily a safe crime to commit, from the difficulty attending conviction, and therefore generally the resort of a counterfeiter in his hour of trial. Mr. Carnahan went over much but not all of the evidence, answering very forcibly every argument adduced by the opposing counsel, and showing, in his view of all the testimony, that Capt. Franklin, the main witness for the Government, was worthy of belief, and that he had been fully sustained. Of the witnesses for the defense he spoke in severe terms, placing much stress on the circumstance that they had been kept away from the Court, concealed a few miles from the city, at the expense of Johnston, until their presence was required to make the pre-arranged attempt to break down Capt Franklin. The man Butts he regarded as a willing, swift witness, whose untruthfulness had been fully demonstrated on his cross-examination. Hutchinson was the man of brains in the party, and it was he who was the chief in the conspiracy. He was a perjured liar, and in saying this Mr. Carnahan remarked he meant all that the words conveyed. Referring to the character of the defendant, Mr. Carnahan said he did not doubt his character in the neighborhood where he resided was as had been represented. He had no doubt he was a clever man, charitable to a certain extent, would not be guilty of cheating in a business transaction, or go back on a friend. He had just such a character as a "wholesale dealer" in counterfeit money was required to have, else he would not occupy that position in the fraternity. He would not pass a counterfeit bill on any one he knew, or sell to such large amounts of counterfeit money; but he was one of the kind of men through whom thousands and thousands of dollars of the "stuff" was distributed to "accredited" agents throughout the country. Men had been convicted (one last week) and were now in the Penitentiary for counterfeiting, who had shown just as good a character as that claimed for the defendant. Mr. C. cited instances, in answer to the "anomaly" referred to by Mr. Purviance, and closed this branch of his argument by stating that if the testimony of Capt. Franklin was believed, the evidence of good character amounted to nothing. Such evidence could not be used to create a doubt, but might be considered where a doubt existed. Mr. Carnahan closed at three o'clock, when the Court adjourned till ten o'clock to-day.

The Late Tunnel Outrage.

The "outrage" of the young girl at the tunnel near the Birmingham bridge is being discussed in an evening cotemporary by "Spencer Shenstone" and "Birmingham." The latter appears as the champion of the Mayor, and intends his observations to sustain the argument he made, as a matter of form, to induce Mayor McCarthy to carry out his previously formed conclusion to discharge the alleged perpetrators of the crime, while the person to whom he replies in rather nifalutin style animadverts upon the heniousness of the crime, and the encouragement afforded for its commission by the laxity of officers in apprehending offenders, and the inadequency of the punishment provided by law. It cannot be doubted that the action of the Mayor caused great surprise, and it is equally true that he is much censured; but we suggest to the correspondents of our evening cotemporary, that they give the "secret history" of the case they have in hand. "Birmingham" might force a conviction that his arguments are sound, by stating the nature of the positive proof the Mayor had that no violence was used, or that no outrage was committed, but that did take place amounting simply to acts of fornication. "Birmingham" may know this "secret history;" we are pretty certain he does know it. Let us have the positive proof.

Of Interest to Hamiltons.

We have received the following singular letter, with request to publish:

APOLLO, PA., August 20, 1867.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The following I have long thought it my duty to give publicity to, and if you will be kind enough to give it a place in your columns it may prove a piece of very interesting information to some of the residents of your city: During the fall of 1835 a large chest, or trunk, fell into the hands of a man then in the employ of D. Leech & Co., of Hollidaysburg, Pa., containing a large lot of valuable men's wearing apparel, a lot of sheets and tablecloths. Besides these there was a large family Bible, with the family record in it of persons by the name of Hamilton. He was frequently urged to advertise it, but always failed to do so, and likewise appropriated part of the articles to his family use. He represents that the person who owned the trunk left it with him and never returned. But that I consider very doubtful. In the trunk were several letters from Mrs. Hamilton to her son, speaking of land in Clearfield county that was to be sold, of which ne was to receive a share, and which he was away perhaps attending to when the trunk was lost. She also spoke of another son who was studying law. If there is any of the family who are yet in Pittsburgh, and would wish to recover the old family record with the rest of the property, if they will address me at Apollo, Armstrong county, Pa., I will give them full information.

Yours respectfully,

THOS. MARTIN.

Slaughter of Horses.

The Greensburg Democrat says: On Sunday morning last, at about three o'clock, the second express freight train going west, came in contact with a number of horses in the cut just east of this place, resulting in the killing of two horses and a sucking colt. The horses had broken out of a pasture field adjoining the railroad during the night, and getting into the deep cut were unable to get off the road and out of the road of an approaching train. Mr. Michael Hawk, of this place, was the owner of the mare and colt that were killed, causing a loss of over one hundred dollars. He had also a valuable horse slightly injured. Mr. John Thomas, also of this place, had a fine work horse killed worth one hundred and fifty dollars. Another horse of Mr. Thomas' was struck by the locomotive or cars, and so badly injured that he may die or be valueless hereafter. Some of the horses were terribly mangled; and it is strange that some of the cars were not thrown off the track in passing over their bodies.

The Result of Abusing a Horse.

Mr. Thomas Neely lost a valuable horse yesterday on the Mount Washington road, caused by improper treatment of the animal. Mr. N. was driving a team of three horses attached to a wagon heavily loaded with bricks, and was walking beside his team on a plank walk. The lead horse, for some reason, pulled to the left and attempted to walk on the planks. When near the coke ovens Mr. Neely, instead of using the line to keep the horse in his proper place, struck him over the nose with the whip. The animal wheeled suddenly and started down the steep hill, followed by the other two. The sudden turn broke the tongue of the wagon, and in a few minutes its unchecked speed crowded the two wheel horses against the leader, throwing him down. The wagon passed over the prostrate animal, crushing his neck and killing him instantly. The other horses were injured seriously and perhaps rendered worthless.

Throwing Stones.

The practice of throwing stones is a pernicious and dangerous one, and is too frequently indulged in by small boys—many of them large enough to behave themselves better, and it is high time an example should be made of some of them. Yesterday morning a number of boys were playing in the Fourth Ward, Allegheny, when a difficulty arose between a son of Mrs. Mary Lorey, and William Humbert, and the latter picked up a stone and threw it at the former, striking him on the forehead, cutting a deep gash above his left eye. Mary Lorey made information before Alderman Miller, against young Humbert, for assault and battery. He was arrested, and his father agreed to pay the costs, upon which he was released.

Base Ball.

The "Pioneer" and "Dauntless" Base Ball Clubs played for the championship of Pittsburgh, on West Common, Allegheny, on Monday. The heavy storm of rain ended their playing, on the fourth inning, instead of the fifth, as was stated in Wednesday's Gazette. The score stood: Dauntless, 32; Pioneer, 21, giving the Dauntless 11 runs the advance.

Settled the Bill.—George W. Dawson, of Allegheny City, made information before Alderman Nellie, yesterday, against James Campbell, charging him with obtaining money to the amount of ten dollars, under false and fraudulent pretences. Campbell was arrested, but not liking the idea of going to Court with the case, paid the ten dollars and costs and was discharged.

A Petition signed by several prominent men of the legal profession is being circulated in Franklin for the pardon of E. Darrow, who was sentenced to seven years imprisonment for highway robbery. He has served out two years of his term. Darrow is well known at Petroleum Centre, where he erected a number of buildings in the spring of 1865.

A Youth of nineteen summers, residing near Tionesta, eloped last week with a lady of some fifty winters who lived near by. They were desperately in love, but as the friends of both parties objected to their union, they proceeded to settle the affair after the longings of their own hearts, and ran away in the middle of the night.

—But twelve millions of the original issue of 340 millions 1st series of 7-30 Treasury notes now remain to be converted or paid off at par in currency. The 2d series of these notes, which will mature on the 15th of June, 1868, amount to about 250 millions, and the 3d series maturing July 15th, 1868, is less than 163 millions. The Treasury offers but two options in regard to the first series, viz: payment in cash at par, (which involves a loss to holders of the 7⅜ per cent. premium) or conversion into gold-bearing 5-20 bonds. After the 15th of September this option will cease, if any of the 1st series remain outstanding, which is not at all probable now, considering the present rate of conversion. The course for parties to pursue who do not wish to convert their 7-30s 1st series into 5-20s, and who yet wish to realize the premium thereon, is to sell their notes to the brokers. This will avoid the loss entailed by presentation for payment at the Treasury.

—The following circular from the President of the Tradesmen's National Bank of New York explains itself:

Exaggerated rumors in reference to a defalcation in this bank being rife, to relieve the anxiety and apprehension of the stockholders and public, I deem it my duty to state that owing to the dishonesty and collusion of the two tellers who have enjoyed the confidence of the officers and directors for a period of thirty years, they have been enabled to defraud the bank to an amount equal to the sum of $95,000. This has been affected in a manner that no ordinary foresight of the officers could have prevented, and it is a source of sincere regret that their confidence should have been so abused. The surplus of the bank upwards of $450,000, will be affected to the extent of $75,000 only, the bonds of the defaulting clerks lessening the deficiency to this amount.

RICHARD BERRY, President.

—Government securities are hardly so active as they were a fortnight since, though prices are pretty well maintained, and are still high enough to put to the blush those theorizers, who have, ever since these securities began to flow upon the market, prophesied their early and sure decline. Investors are holding back, more reluctant to purchase our gold-bearing bonds at the present high premium, and little is doing just now in the way of speculation in these securities. Still it is a fact that at the present price of gold these untaxable 6s of 1881 and 5-20s are as profitable as any thing equally safe offered on the market. The 5-20s in the London market are now quoted at 73⅜. The very low rate of interest in the European countries, and the unparalleled accumulations of capital there are causes leading to improvement in the foreign market for United bonds.—Phila. Ledger.

The New York Tribune says: The only mode by which specie payments can be reached is by retracing the steps by which specie was abandoned as the standard. As prices were advanced by the manufacture of hundreds of millions of paper tokens called by law money, swelling thereby the volume of the currency, and decreasing its value as compared with fixed property, so prices can only be restored to natural values by recalling the paper tokens issued under the pressure of the Rebellion. As the legal tender paper is canceled market values will recede, and in no other process can this desirable result be attained. Upon this financial authorities agree, and the only point of difference is as to the time when this withdrawal of legal tenders can be made most safely. Secretary McCulloch is of opinion that specie payments can be reached in July, 1868, and in his belief we fully share, in common with every solvent citizen of the country. Mr. McCulloch's policy is opposed by all the debtors and speculators in the Western States, the first upon the ground that they should be allowed to close up their business in the same debased currency with which they commenced it, and the latter for the reason that under paper money speculations throve better than when the currency is at the standard required for the purposes of ordinary business.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, August 21, 1867.

CRUDE—There was but a single operation in Crude to-day, two thousand barrels, to be delivered on first water, at 10½c. The demand both for present and future delivery continues very light, which is owing to the fact that buyers expect, under the influence of an expected bulk rise within a short time, to buy at a still further reduction, and it is this more than anything else, that restricts business and retards operations. Spot oil, in the absence of sales, may be quoted nominally at 10@10½c, and for the last four months, sellers could probably be found at 10½c, their option, or 11c, buyer's option.

REFINED—The market for bonded oil is quiet but steady at yesterday's quotations. We can report two 500 bbl lots, prime light straw to white, for August, at 29½c; 500 standard white, for September, buyer's option, at 29c, and 500 do do at 29⅛c. The last four months, buyers option, may be quoted as 31c, and the last three months at 31½c. There is but very little oil offering, and our refiners generally, seem pretty determined to hold their oil until the market improves, and better prices can be realized. In the event of prices declining much more, we expect to see a pretty sharp speculative demand spring up, and then, as was the case before, an important and material advance will no doubt be established, and that, too, within a very short time.

RIVER NEWS.

The river rose about twelve inches during Tuesday night and yesterday forenoon, the metal marks indicating thirty-five inches. About noon, however, it began to recede again, and we fear that the rise will not amount to much, unless there is a good deal more rain. This freshet, it appears, emanated in the Kiskiminitas and other streams at the lower end of the Allegheny, as the river has been falling at Oil City for a couple of days past. The weather last evening was cloudy and warm, with every appearance of more rain.

The Leni Leoti cleared for Parkersburg yesterday, the first departure down the Ohio for some time. The Linton, a new boat, is announced for Cincinnati and Louisville.

The Ida Stockdale was expected to arrive at St. Louis from Fort Benton yesterday. The Indians, it seems, are getting very troublesome on the Upper Missouri—they fired several shots at the Ida on the 4th inst., but fortunately, inflicted no injury to either property or person. She has been on the Missouri River for over four months—made one round trip from St. Louis to Fort Benton, and two partial trips.

While passing down the Mississippi last week, General Sherman was terribly bothered by a band of minstrels who were on the steamer, and who persisted in singing all the Sherman songs that were ever written.

Some time ago the Empire took from Louisville a lot of one hundred and fifty barrels of flour, destined for New Orleans, with the privilege of reshipping. The flour was reshipped at Cairo on the barge line to New Orleans. A few days ago word was received by the Underwriters of Louisville from the owners of the flour, claiming damages on the whole lot. The barge line swamped the barge that contained the flour. Barge lines are profitable institutions.

The mate of the steamer John Kilgour became involved in a difficulty, at New Orleans, on Wednesday, with a number of colored stevedores belonging to the boat. The mate struck one of them with a broom handle, and was struck in return. The mate afterward fired three shots from a revolver without effect, and was immediately arrested. Four of the stevedores were also arrested, and locked up on a charge of attempting to incite a riot. The cause of the affray seems to be that the stevedores claimed supper on the boat, to which they were not entitled.

A DECISION IN A COLLISON CASE—The local inspectors of St. Louis, Vandervert and Morgan, are models. They have decided the collision case of the Waverly and G. A. Thomson, near Fort Berthold, Missouri river, June 8th, 1867. In the first place they find "that J. T. Doran, pilot of the ascending boat G. A. Thomson, could easily have avoided the boat, and erred in not crossing to the bar;" also that "Jas. Kelley, pilot of the decending boat erred in not stopping his boat," and they wisely concluded to suspend each sixty days.

The only improvement we can suggest to the above is that each pilot be fined two months wages, though this ruling of making both liable for the faults may be equitable, and possibly may result in making all pilots good and responsible, or rather the association, so called, will take more pains in keeping their members all equal, or all equally good alike. By their rules they presume it, and by the Inspectors' ruling they assume it.—Louisville Courier.

Capt. De Haven is in Memphis. The Bulletin says he appears much elated over the prospects for the successful accomplishment of his grand steamboat enterprise.

ST. LOUIS, August 19.—The water has hardly got low enough to compel an increase of freight rates. The Missouri, through its entire length, is still falling from four to six inches per day, but heavy rains have fallen above St. Joseph. The depth of water admits the passage of boats drawing five feet two inches, from Miami to St. Louis. The stern-wheeler Ida Fulton, lately running to the mountains, has been sold for $10,000 to go the Upper Mississippi. A large number of lumber rafts are on the way here from the Upper Mississippi. The Grey Eagle recently towed here a raft of nearly two million feet. The Silver Lake, recently from the mountains, is loading for Cincinnati.

The Cincinnati Commercial, of Tuesday, says: Ida Rees is fitting out for St. Louis. Dr. J. C. Harrison, mate of the Sam. J. Hale, has gone to Possum Creek and the piney knobs of the Sunnish on a hunting excursion. Benj. Crawford, Esq., of the Treasury Department, and Captain S. Devinney, Supervising Inspector for this district, have been in the city for several days. Capts. Jas. W. Batchelor, John Baker and Andrew Robinson, jr., yesterday appraised the Lawrence, belonging to the estate of the late Capt. John Bradley, at $12,500. The Leonidas was towed up to the bone-yard yesterday, where she will remain until there is more water. All the local packet companies yesterday adopted the new style of bill of lading.

P. H. Willis, engineer of the Ingomar, aged 32 years, was drowned on the 11th inst., near Plaquemine, Louisiana, by the sinking of the boat. The body was recovered and buried at Plaquemine on the same day. He leaves a wife and three children.

A Memphis telegram to the Cincinnati Commercial, under date of Monday, says: Fred. Morrison, a well-known river clerk, shot and killed a man named Williamson, in an altercation at Friar's Point, Mississippi, on Saturday. Several shots were discharged. Morrison was wounded in the neck. The St. Patrick broke her shaft below here on Sunday. Capt. Hicks has purchased an interest in the Henry Ames. She enters the Memphis and New Orleans trade. Capt. James Duff, of the Avalanche, Harry Beek, of the Appeal, and Frolick, of the White County Record, leave to-night to attend the Press party at Mammoth Cave.

The St. Louis Republican, of Sunday, says: The opening of the ball between the rival Quincy packets was the occasion yesterday of quite an excitement on the wharf, and as the hour of departure approached, numerous squads might have been seen wending their way toward the upper portion of the wharf, where a good view of the steamers might be had. Punctual to the minute, at 4 p. m. the Tom Jasper cast off her fastenings, backed out into the stream, and started on her voyage. After she had fairly cleared the wharf-boat, the Harry Johnson, noted on the Upper Mississippi, swung out and started after the Jasper, which had by this time secured a start of some two or three hundred yards. At the elevator the Johnson was speedily gaining on her rival, but, owing to a little confusion which occurred at that point in passing the Sucker State, lost a few moments, which gave the Jasper a fresh start, and the last we saw of the opposing steamers both were going steadily on their way. Both boats had their admirers and friends among the spectators, but it was generally conceded that the Johnson was the faster boat, and that she would have no trouble in passing the Jasper before reaching Alton. As a specimen of the interest felt in the matter, we might state that a deck-hand of the Sucker State fell overboard; no attention further than to throw him a plank was taken of the matter. A skiff, in which a couple of boys were enjoying themselves riding the waves, picked the man up, none the worse for his involuntary bath.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Tuesday, says: Some of the mountain boats have been so unfortunate this year as not to realize a profit on the round trip exceeding six or eight thousand dollars, while the most successful is reported at $38,000 only, if we except the Ida Stockdale, which is making her fourth or fifth return to Benton, or a point below. Her profits from the season's business will foot up $50,000 to $75,000. Wm. Aiken, proprietor of the fine livery stable on Washington avenue, opposite Huguniu's jewelry store, died suddenly of apoplexy yesterday. He was well known to boatmen, and a more generous hearted man it would be hard to find. He was from Pittsburgh.

A PRO RATA DISTRIBUTION OF PROFITS TO TICKET-HOLDERS!

Capital, - - $1,287,148.

TICKETS, ONE DOLLAR EACH,

And limited to One Million Two Hundred and Eighty-seven Thousand One Hundred & Forty-eight.

The Fairest and Most Impartial Plan of Presentation yet Offered to the Public.

A PRIZE WITH EVERY TICKET.

PROSPECTUS.

A number of the leading Bankers and Merchants of New York, in consideration of the great success which has attended many of the Charitable Presentation Entertainments of the day, have organized themselves into a company with the view of inaugurating an enterprise which, while it shall return them a fair profit, shall offer greater advantages to ticket-purchasers than any yet presented; and which, being conducted upon a perfectly legitimate and business basis, shall be free from those objectionable features which have characterized many of these enterprises.

To this end they have consigned the sale of tickets, and the registering of the same, to CLARK, WEBSTER & CO., Bankers and Managers, No. 62 Broadway, New York, who will keep the records in their custody until the day of the Grand Presentation Entertainment, when they will be handed over to a committee selected by the audience to make an impartial distribution of prizes.

In reference to the number of prizes and the general plan of distribution, given below, will convince even the most skeptical of the great advantages which will accrue to all who participate in the enterprise; and the Commercial and Financial standing of the Company, and the Managers and Bankers thereof, will, they hope, prove a sufficient guaranty of the fairness and impartiality with which everything in connection with the scheme will be conducted, and the interests of ticket holders will be most strictly watched over and guarded. It is the desire of the Managers to conduct every transaction for the mutual benefit of whoever shall purchase a ticket, and scrupulously to avoid any and everything which could in the slightest degree diminish the profits which are likely to accrue to all who invest.
